Context of the research activity

Motivation and objectives of the research in this field	To study and develop innovative catalysts and catalytic processes for energy-related and environmental applications, aiming at improved efficiency and mitigation of the C₂ emissions of processes in the fields of mobility, chemical productions, energy conversion systems.
Methods and techniques that will be developed and used to carry out the research	Testing of catalysts under laboratory conditions. Kinetics analysis and study of reaction mechanism. Analysis of the role of heat and mass transfer phenomena. Mathematical modelling of catalytic reactors. Experimental and modelling activities will be performed in the state-of-the art laboratories of the LCCP group at the Department of Energy, Politecnico di Milano.
Educational objectives	To gain a high-level knowledge about catalytic processes for energy applications and environmental protection. The candidate will develop cutting edge competences on the frontiers of the energy transition and of decarbonization strategies.
Job opportunities	Chemical industries, energy companies, consultancy companies in the field of environmental protection, energy efficiency and decarbonization, developers and users of energy conversion technologies, catalyst manufacturers, car manufacturers.
